It was a hot August day. Joey and his sister Jenny played soccer in their front yard. Ruben and Rebecca joined them.

“Over here!” shouted Ruben.

Joey kicked the ball to Ruben. It rolled into the busy street, and Ruben started to chase it.

“Watch out, Ruben!” Joey shouted.

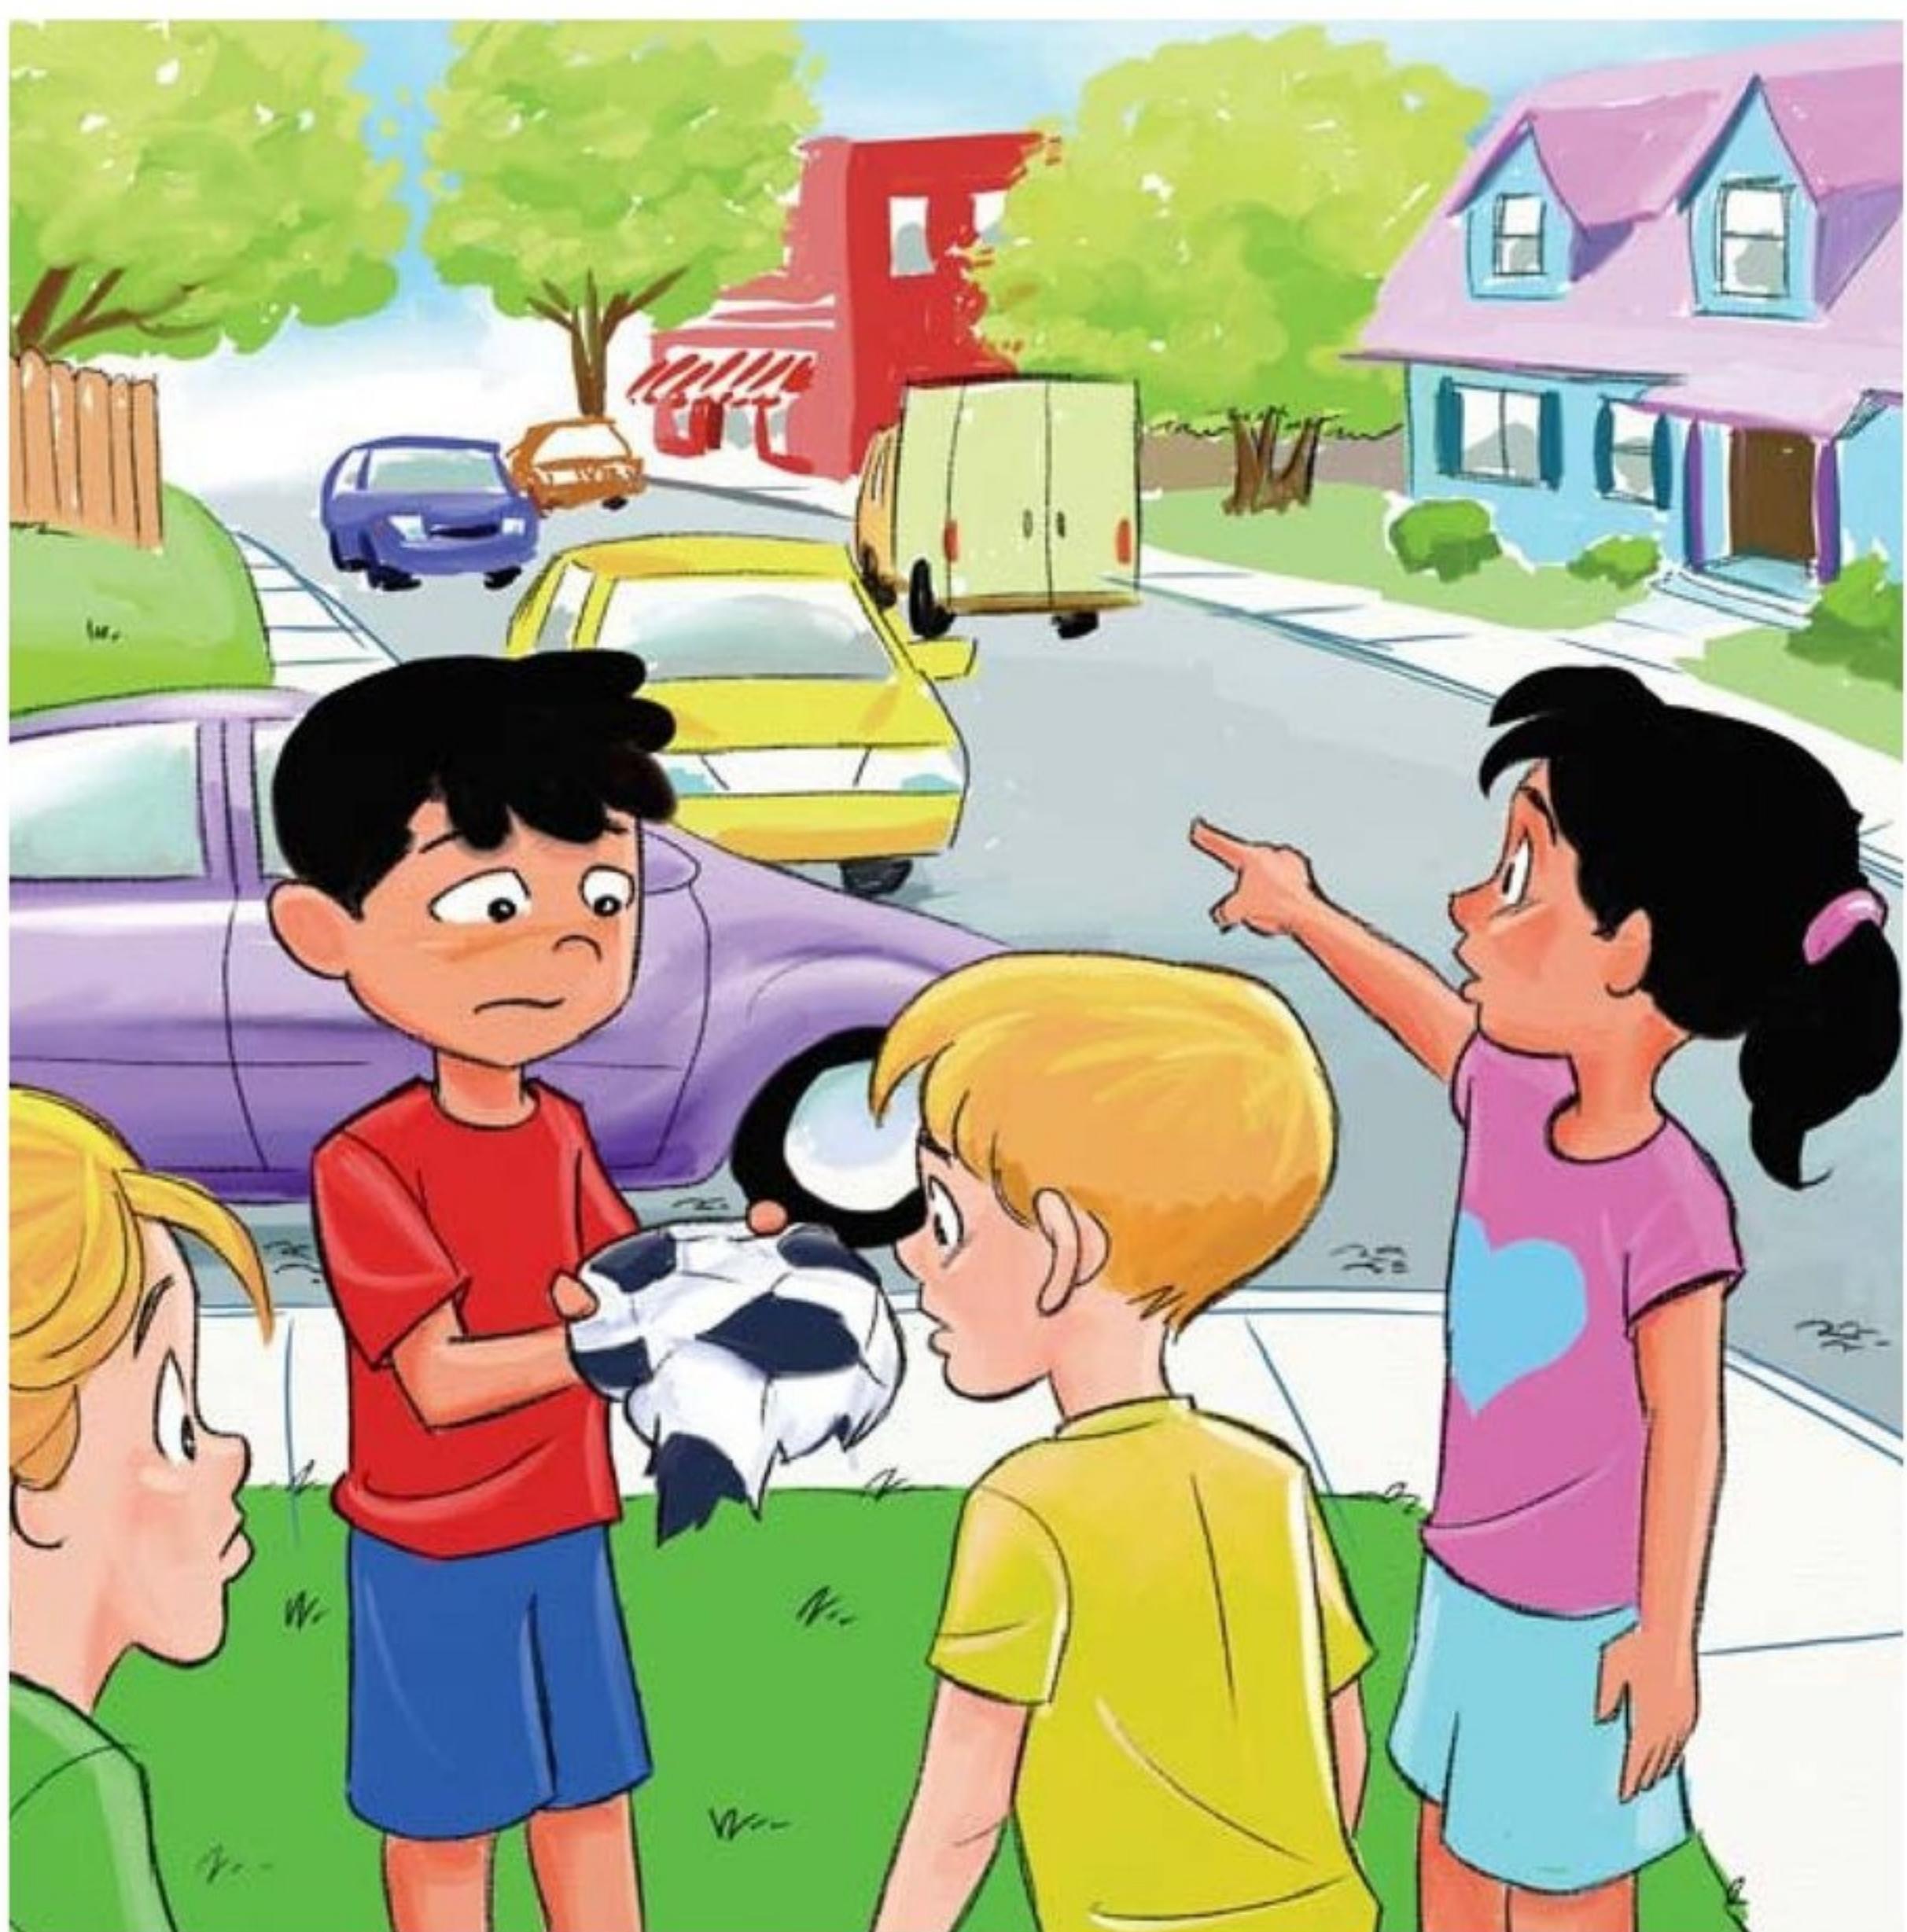

Just then, a car whizzed by. The car hit the soccer ball and popped it.

“There are more cars on our street all the time!” said Ruben.

“It’s harder to cross the street to get to school, too,” said Jenny.

“Or to Mr. Lupois’ market,” said Rebecca.

“Last week, Mrs. Murphy’s dog Lucy got hit by a car. Lucy has a broken leg,” said Joey.

A few nights later, Joey and Jenny talked to their parents.

“We’ve been doing our research,” said Jenny. “We think there should be stop signs at the corner. That will slow traffic and make it safer to cross our street.”

“Stop signs are a great idea,” said Mom. “You’ve been counting cars before and after school?”

“Yes,” said Joey. “Also, Ruben has a camera. He’s been taking pictures of people trying to cross.”

“Good work!” said Dad. “The next step is a petition.”

Dad and Mom showed Jenny and Joey how to write a petition.

The petition stated the reasons for adding stop signs. People could sign the petition if they agreed.

“You’ll need signatures from the majority of people in the neighborhood,” said Dad.

“What does majority mean?” asked Jenny.

“It means more than half of the people,” explained Dad.

Over the next week, Joey, Jenny, Ruben, and Rebecca talked to people in the neighborhood. Many people signed their petition, but some did not.

“The city council has a meeting next week,” Joey said to Mrs. Murphy. “My dad asked if our stop sign request could be put on the agenda

“We’ll bring our petition, photos, and the traffic counting we did, too,” said Rebecca.

Friends, family, and neighbors were at the city council meeting.

“I’m nervous,” whispered Ruben.

“Me, too,” Joey agreed.

When their names were called,
Joey, Jenny, Ruben, and Rebecca stood at the microphone.

Joey talked about the need for the stop signs. Jenny and Rebecca showed their petition.

“These are the photos we took of people trying to cross the street,” said Ruben. “This is Lucy, a dog that was hit by a car.”

When they finished, neighbors took turns speaking. Everyone said stop signs were needed.

“Thank you for your hard work,” said the city council president.
“We’ll discuss this and vote in two weeks.”

Joey, Jenny, Ruben, and Rebecca waited the long two weeks.

One day, there was a phone call.

“The city council voted YES!” said Jenny.

A few months later, workers put up the stop signs. There was a story and a photo in the newspaper about what the kids had accomplished.

“Our street sure is safer now,” said Joey.

“Woof!” Lucy agreed.
